

HANOI TERMS LULL 'TRICK'

Hanoi Keeps Terms

... ON PEACE

Tokyo (AP)—Ho Chi Minh's government, in its first direct reaction to the 12-day-old halt of U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam, Tuesday called the suspension a "trick." It repeated that settlement of the Vietnamese war must be on Hanoi's terms.

The United States "has no right to impose on the government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam any condition whatsoever in exchange for stopping its air raids," said a foreign ministry statement broadcast by Hanoi Radio.

Christmas Eve The United States suspended air raids on North Viet Nam on Christmas Eve. There was no indication Tuesday as to when orders might be given to renew the attacks. The suspension was viewed as part of an intense U.S. diplomatic campaign described by the White House as aiming to create conditions for peace.

The long delay in North Viet Nam's official reaction to the suspension of bombings had raised a few hopes that the Hanoi regime might be ready for talks. The Soviet and East European communist governments have said for months that no peace talks would be possible as long as the bombings continued.

Tuesday's statement may have been intended to serve notice that Hanoi was sticking to a tough line in advance of the imminent visit to North Viet Nam of Alexander N. Shelepin, top level Soviet troubleshooter. It has been said he might try for a Viet Nam peace settlement.

'Deceptive' The Hanoi statement called U.S. diplomatic activity "a large scale deceptive peace campaign coupled with the trick of 'temporary suspension of air attacks' on North Viet Nam as a sign of 'good will'."

"While making a noise about its 'peace efforts,' the United States is making feverish preparations to double the U.S. military strength in South Viet Nam," the statement said. "The facts have shown that every time the U.S. authorities want to intensify their aggressive war, they talk still more glibly about peace."

The statement said a settlement must be on the off-repeated four-point communist demands, including withdrawal of all U.S. troops from South Viet Nam.

HONEST MAN RETURNS $231 IN BILLFOLD

Harry A. Lillie, about 80, of 1821 No. 31st lost a billfold containing $231 cash, but no identification, on a Lincoln street early Tuesday.

Lillie returned home and told his wife about the loss, saying it's hopeless to call the police because nobody's going to turn in all that money.

Lillie's wife thought there might be at least one honest man in the world and called police to tell them of the loss and described the billfold.

There was at least one honest man in the world—in this case, R. J. Shanders of Grand Island who had found the billfold lying on the sidewalk near 11th and O and turned it over to police.

Bicycle Explosion New Delhi, India (AP)—Authorities estimate the number of bicycles in New Delhi increased from 375,000 in 1960 to more than 475,000 now. The rise is attributed to a lack of adequate public transport.

The pups, all females, are from a litter of six born Oct. 21 to a Texas beagle, named Brigitte, owned by Austin veterinarian R. PROFIT ... Children's Zoo Shows Black Ink

By BOB SCHREPP

Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's Children's Zoo enjoyed a net income of $9,356 during its opening 1965 season, Arnoit Folsom, zoo association president, reported Tuesday.

The zoo, one of the city's most heralded attractions in recent years, opened July 21 of last year and closed its doors Sept. 12, after receiving a total of 61,112 visitors during 47 days of being open.

Folsom also said that more than 80,000 tickets were sold for rides on the zoo's unique Iron Horse Railroad.

Of the zoo attendance total, 29,849 youngsters at 25 cents each and 30,059 adults paying 50 cents per person entered the 30th and A St. grounds. A total of 1,104 special admissions were also noted.

Profit 'Good' Speaking of the first year profit, Folsom commented, "It's good, it's as it should be for the healthy condition of a children's zoo."

"We all realize a zoo is no good to anyone if it is broke," he continued.

Asked what would be done with the profit accrued through the zoo's first year, Folsom answered, "Every net penny of income will be used to repair and improve and to add additional improvements to the Children's Zoo."

In this vein, he said he anticipates the addition of a seal pool, lizard exhibit and a cage of exotic birds.

"Of course," said Folsom hopefully, "our timetable of developments also depends on the generosity of the people interested in our program."

Gifts Pouring In "Gifts continue to pour in almost daily," he said, mentioning that the latest donation, the gift of the Paul C. Schorr III's, will be an illuminated fountain, to be located on the zoo's spacious Over Look.

Folsom announced that the zoo's opening day for 1966 will be "several days before Decoration Day" (May 30), and added that the zoo's widespread reputation has resulted in a request that participants in a national convention slated to meet in Lincoln this summer be taken on a tour of the attraction.

Folsom reported the following as the profit and loss statement for the zoo as of Nov. 1, 1965 (fund stands at $30,390.23, including balance brought forward and a $10,000 provision for contingencies and replacements):

Police Hit Alleged Bookie Spots

By JOHN DECAMP

Star Staff Writer

Lincoln police confirmed Tuesday they had taken action against two "alleged bookie joints" during the Christmas holidays and said the two places "were effectively put out of business."

And City Councilman John Mason, introducer of stricter anti-gambling measures passed by the Council late last year, said he was "perfectly satisfied" that police had "eliminated commercial gambling in Lincoln."

Police Chief Joseph T. Carroll said police action had "cut off the very lifeline of these places by cutting off their communications facilities."

Phone Removed It was understood from other sources that police had ordered telephones removed from the two establishments, apparently under a new city ordinance which prohibits the use of wire communication facilities for gambling purposes.

Police said they had long kept tabs on the two clubs as suspected bookie joints.

Surgery For Menninger Topeka (AP)—Dr. William C. Menninger, president of the Menninger Foundation, underwent exploratory chest surgery in Methodist Hospital in Rochester, Minn.

but added that their recent "investigation and dealings with" the establishments have "curbed any commercial gambling" at the two places "about as effectively as anything."

Inspector Robert Sawdon, who headed the investigation, said that one of the clubs has been "locked and entrance to the place forbidden."

"The other club," Sawdon said, "is open only for the use of a group of elderly men who have used one of the rooms there to play checkers and cards for more than 25 years. As places for gambling," Sawdon said, "they have ceased to exist."

Police declined to give further details of the investigation and of the actions taken against the establishments, but did predict that after next July 1 "there will not be a single federal gambling stamp held by any Lincoln resident or business."

July 1 is the date on which stamps held by several Lincolnites expire.

Commenting on the police action, Mason said, "This (the two clubs), was the only thing I was ever concerned about. The police have done their job in eliminating them and they are to be highly commended. The whole council was behind the mayor and the police. We passed the necessary ordinances and the police did their job."

Order Halting Annexation Issued But Not In Effect Yet

By GERRY SWITZER

Star Staff Writer

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings Tuesday issued a temporary restraining order halting the annexation of West Lincoln by the City of Lincoln.

Judge Hastings set 2 p.m. Jan. 14 for hearing on a temporary injunction in the suit brought by West Lincoln resident and former Village Board member Cecil Campbell.

Campbell is seeking a permanent injunction against the city and a judgment declaring LB586 unconstitutional and city ordinances 8730 and 8891 purporting to annex West

Lincoln unauthorized under LB586.

'Class Legislation' LB586, passed by the 1965 Legislature, which authorizes cities of primary class to annex villages under certain conditions, is unconstitutional, according to Campbell, because it is "class legislation."

Judge Hastings set bond at $15,000 which had not yet been posted by Campbell late Tuesday. Until the bond is posted, the restraining order is not effective.

At a hearing Tuesday, attorney Merrill Reller told the court that unless a temporary restraining order were granted the village cannot protect itself and cannot maintain the status quo.

Records Would Go He pointed out that the records would be taken, offices would be dissolved and that the West Lincoln residents would be "irreparably damaged" if the court "doesn't act."

Henry Holst, deputy city attorney, argued that "there is no basis in law or in fact for an order granting the restraining order requested," noting that the ordinances annexing West Lincoln became effective after midnight Jan. 3 or at the beginning of Jan. 4.

"The plaintiff is asking the equity court to change what has already been done," Holst said.

He said there is no contract for water, sewage, gas, or fire protection, in effect between West Lincoln and the city, unless authorized by contract with the village, cannot use its municipal powers and functions in furnishing these items for the village.

Should Be Total "If there is to be any restraining order, all logic requires that the restraining order should be total in its operation—that is, the city cannot assert its power in any manner or means," Holst said.

Judge Hastings asked Holst what the city's position would be if he were to issue the restraining order purely on a status quo basis.

Holst indicated he was not in a position to say what the administration might do regarding fire protection, water, sewage, etc., if the court orders a restraining order preventing the effectiveness of the annexation.

Lincoln police commenced patrolling the West Lincoln area Tuesday following information from Judge Hastings that a restraining order which would hold off annexation was not yet in effect.

White Accused Of Tuskegee Killing

Tuskegee, Ala. (AP)—A white service station employee was charged with murder Tuesday in the slaying of a young Negro civil rights volunteer whose death touched off an angry demonstration by fellow college students.

Marvin Segrest, about 67, of nearby Shorter, was already in jail for questioning when the charge was filed in the pistol slaying of Samuel Younge Jr., 21, a student at Tuskegee Institute.

Younge, shot in the face with a .38-caliber bullet, was found early Tuesday in a rainy driveway alongside a taxistand in downtown Tuskegee. Segrest worked at a service station nearby.

The warrant charging murder was signed by the slain Negro's father, a U.S. Forest Service employee stationed in Atlanta.

Had Dispute Dist. Atty. Tom Young said he was told that Segrest and the young Negro had a disagreement some time before the shooting and that the Negro left the service station and returned.

As the investigation continued, hundreds of Negro students, most of them carrying umbrellas in a light rain, paraded through the business section to the spot where Younge had fallen dead.

The demonstrators, their number estimated by police at 1,500, marched back through town singing. They massed in front of the city hall demanding an immediate conference with city officials.

Mayor Charles M. Keever and the city council, including its two Negro members, were in conference at the time with Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Mayor: 'Tragic' The crowd dispersed after Keever told the students the killing was a "tragic occurrence." Keever pledged every effort to see that justice was done.

The mayor, a former used-car dealer, was elected last year with the support of Negro voters.

Tuskegee is the seat of Macon County which has a population of about 27,000—of which 83% is Negro. It was the first county in Alabama with a Negro voting majority.

Side By Side As he spoke, a Negro woman worked side by side with white clerks in city hall and three Negro policemen, among a force of 14 officers, patrolled the city.

Tuskegee last year became the first city in Alabama to elect Negroes to an integrated governing body.

The slain Negro, whose mother teaches school in Tuskegee, had been active in civil rights work for several months.

Pool Closed He led an integration movement at the city-owned swimming pool last summer and took part in an unsuccessful attempt to integrate white churches. The swimming pool was closed after Younge Jr. and Negro companions gained admittance.

In recent days, Younge had joined in erecting tents in a field in Lowndes County to house Negroes who, they said, had been ordered evicted because of civil rights activity.

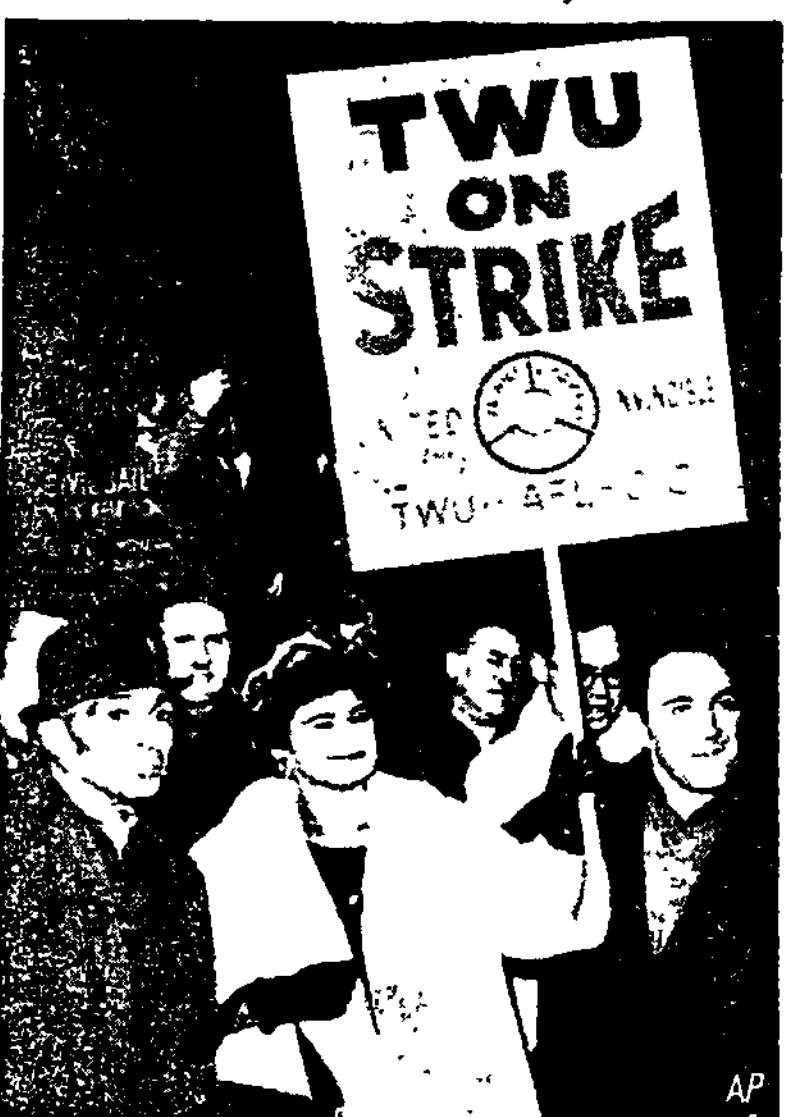

In the hours before his death, Younge had spent the day working as a voter registration volunteer in Tuskegee.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in Atlanta said Younge was a SNCC field secretary.

Younge is the fifth civil rights worker slain in Alabama since the start of voter registration campaign in January 1965 at Selma.

JAILED QUILL HOSPITALIZED

New York (AP)—Defiant transport workers Union President Michael J. Quill was hauled off to jail Tuesday still voicing adamant refusal to halt the four-day citywide transit strike. A short time later, he was stricken ill and rushed to a hospital.

Dr. Harry Zuckerman, Quill's heart specialist, said the labor leader is "suffering from total exhaustion. That is all we know at the moment."

Quill's place at the bargaining table was taken by his administrative assistant, Douglas L. MacMahon, international vice president of the union. A tall, red-faced man of Scotch descent, MacMahon told a news conference.

"If they (Transit Authority negotiators) don't want to bargain collectively, then the strike will go on until hell freezes over."

8 Others To Jail Eight other strike leaders went to jail with Quill as eight million New Yorkers struggled through another day of a mounting transportation crisis, with all city-owned subway and bus lines at a standstill for the first time in history.

The threat of utter municipal chaos, thus far avoided, remained. It was heightened by an AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen threat to close down the Long Island Railroad, busiest commuter line in the nation and one of the city's chief remaining transportation arteries.

Efforts were being made to keep peace talks going between the union and the Transit Authority.

Martyr Quill's critics often have accused the bald, rotund Irish born union leader of seeking the role of martyr at the hands of city transit officials. He seemed within the framework of this characterization as sheriff's officers arrested him for his failure to abide by a court decreed back-to-work injunction.

Declared Quill, "I don't care if I rot in jail, I will not call off the strike ... The judge can drop dead in his black robes."

He referred to the sentencing judge, State Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller.

Geller amended his commitment order to let Quill be treated by his own doctors in civil custody at Bellevue, rather than in the hospital's prison ward.

Traffic was reported climbing dangerously toward the city-estimated saturation point in Manhattan of 700,000 automobiles. Police Commissioner Vincent L. Broderick said 80% of the cars carried only a driver, no passengers.

New York's public and parochial schools reopened after a one-day strike-induced extension of the Christmas holidays. The result was that 1.5 million youngsters were on the move, tens of thousands of them in school buses.

LBJ To Seek War Billions

Washington (AP) — President Johnson intends to ask Congress for an extra $12 to $13 billion for the effort to save Viet Nam, competent authorities said Tuesday night.

The request may go to Capitol Hill next week, possibly the day after Johnson delivers his State of the Union message which is certain to dwell heavily on the Vietnamese problem.

The bid will probably be nearer $13 billion than $12 billion and be a request for funds that could be made available in the current fiscal year ending next June 30. But not all of it would be spent by mid-1966—only about $5 billion of the total is slated for actual expenditure by the end of June.

$14 Billion Plus
Together with $1.7 billion already granted by Congress last August and $700 million provided in May, the new funds would bring the total for increased efforts in Viet Nam to $14 billion plus.

The $5 billion, officials said, would go largely into replacing military stocks that were depleted for the Vietnamese war effort. In the early days, bullets were taken from the shelf and now have to be replaced.

The remainder of the funds are being sought, one informant said, "in case we need it in Viet Nam—that's the best way of putting it." He called it a matter of prudence rather than planning for an extended military operation.

Earlier Tuesday, word came from the White House the President intends to ask the Congress to approve a budget of between $110 billion and $115 billion for the fiscal year 1967, but that "at this moment" he was not considering a tax increase.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan quickly charged that kind of spending would mean higher taxes or inflation. He called for a reduction in spending at home.

The government's income projections were not announced, but some economic experts believe federal revenues could run well over $100 billion during the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

Higher Income
A budget deficit of $7 billion to $8 billion is anticipated during the current book-keeping year. The current revenue estimate is $96.5 billion, but the administration thinks the government will take in more than that.

Word from the White House on prospects of a budget swollen by the war in Viet Nam brought this response from Ford:

"If President Johnson's budget is either $100 billion or $115 billion next year, it means he is financing both guns and butter which will inevitably lead to a tax increase or runaway inflation.

"Republicans believe a better solution is a reduction in non-essential domestic spending in order to avoid added taxes or a skyrocketing cost of living."

A Southern Democrat declared, "We are going to have to retrench and hold down on new programs until the budget is in better control.

"It's imperative that we try to hold our budget deficit as small as possible," said Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Ev, 70, Warns About Compromising Viets
Washington (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., interrupted his 70th birthday party Tuesday to caution against any settlement which would compromise the freedom of South Viet Nam's people.

With friends and neighbors about him at his De Bary, Fla., winter home, the Republican Senate leader confided that he was snowed under with birthday telegrams, telephone calls and flowers from all over the country.

Sen. and Mrs. Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., dropped in to help him celebrate.

Asked how it feels to reach 70, he replied in a telephone interview: "I may be 70 timewise, but in viewpoint and in ideas I'm still 50, or even less."

Seconds Peace Blitz
Turning serious in response to questions, Dirksen said he goes along with President Johnson's worldwide peace offensive. But he hoisted a danger signal against any future negotiations which might compromise the 1954 Geneva agreements under which South Viet Nam's people would be free to choose their own government.

"Our endeavors must be to bring this war to an end honorably and victoriously," he said. "We have got to make good on our pledges that the people of South Viet Nam will remain free. I am not one to compromise with the Communists. The problem is, what is

KOREAN-VIET FORCE LOCKED WITH REDS NEAR TUY HOA

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — A Korean-Vietnamese task force and Viet Cong units were reported heavily engaged Tuesday night on the east coast 12 miles south of Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the major ground action of the day.

Vietnamese planes helped a militia company beat off a Viet Cong battalion that, for the second day in a row, attacked the Cong Hoa outpost, about 120 miles north of Tuy Hoa. Officers said 15 Viet Cong were killed and government casualties were light.

Suspension of U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam was in its 12th day while American diplomats worked on in the Johnson administration's pronounced effort of doing everything possible to "bring about conditions in which peace is possible."

No Change
"There still is no change," a U.S. spokesman said. In a harassing move, guerrillas sniped the sole highway between Saigon and the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade's command post at Bao Trai, 20 miles west of this city, by blowing up a canal bridge.

Presumably the bridge can be repaired soon. The brigade's soldiers and most of their equipment are transportable by planes and helicopters.

Artillery and tanks backed the drive which the brigade and New Zealand and Vietnamese units launched last weekend against Viet Cong infesting the rice and sugar fields on the northern flank of the Mekong Delta.

(UPI reported the U.S. paratroopers found the body of what appeared to be a Communist Chinese adviser to the Viet Cong forces. The suspected adviser's body was discovered in a four-foot-deep hole along a treeline. The corpse was clothed in a tailored uniform much better than the rag-tag outfits usually worn by communist guerrillas.)

Main forces of the Viet Cong eluded the allies, pulling back into the marshy Plain of Reeds between Bao Trai and the Cambodian frontier. However, American and Vietnamese units were reported to have killed 236 Viet Cong since the start of the operation, while taking light casualties.

Red Beard Is Threat To Wilson
London (AP)—A red-bearded radical opened a special election campaign Tuesday to topple Britain's Labor government because of its support for U.S. policy on Viet Nam.

The political mathematics of the government and the district make him a serious threat.

The election in the port city of Hull on Jan. 27 is shaping up as the most crucial for Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government since it took office in 1964. It was brought on by the death of the Labor member of Parliament for Hull North, Henry Solomon, in November.

Defeat for Labor would reduce its House of Commons majority to one vote. Its prestige would be so badly damaged that Wilson might have to resign.

Journalist Gott
The challenge to Wilson is posed by Richard Gott, 27, a journalist running as the candidate of a group calling itself the Radical Alliance. Its organizers are leaders of Britain's ban-the-bomb movement, the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (CND).

In most special elections, Gott normally could expect several hundred votes, a small amount of publicity and a platform to air his views.

He would represent little more than nuisance value to the other candidates—Laborite Kevin McNamara, 31, a law lecturer at Hull Commercial College; Conservative Toby Jessel, 31, a London exporter, and Mrs. Laurie Millward, a local housewife who is the Liberal candidate.

But because of Labor's narrow majority in both the Commons and the Hull North district, Gott is far more than just a nuisance for Labor.

All the Conservatives need in Hull is a shift of less than two per cent of the voters away from Labor. They already have done better than that in several special elections during the past year.

Kashmir Appears To Have Tashkent Talks Deadlocked

Tashkent, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The Tashkent summit meeting of Indian and Pakistani leaders appeared deadlocked Tuesday on the issue that drove them to war twice in 17 years and might again—Kashmir.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan took rigid public stands, offering each other no-war pacts, as they met for the first time since their struggle over the beautiful Himalayan state escalated to a brief but bloody war in September.

Their aides were talking in even tougher terms. This indicated the Indian-Pakistan tension that has erupted in the United Nations and elsewhere since 1947 has been transplanted to this new forum.

Pressed By Russia
Under Soviet pressure to achieve some face-saving understanding, both delegations were reported shifting to minor problems that if solved could somewhat lessen tension but leave major differences untouched.

Their host, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, in apparent recognition of the heat and depth of the quarrel, told both leaders it may prove difficult to solve all their problems in one meeting.

In their first public statements since private negotiations began, both Shastri and Ayub offered the other a no-war pact. But each attached conditions the other has found unacceptable.

Shastri said peaceful coexistence is necessary to "improve the totality" of relations with Pakistan. Once both sides renounce the use of force, progress can be made on such things as increasing trade, halting propaganda attacks and normalizing diplomatic relations, he added.

He said nothing to change India's stand that Kashmir is an integral part of India and not negotiable.

Repeats Stand
Ayub reiterated his offer to sign a no-war pact if the "basic problem confronting us"—Kashmir—is resolved. Pakistan wants a plebiscite, confident the Moslem Kashmiris will vote to split away from Hindu India.

"A no-war agreement between nations can work only if it is adopted after taking concrete steps for resolving the disputes which divide them," he declared.

It was a reply of arguments both sides have made since they were created out of British India in 1947 and immediately launched into a struggle over Kashmir.

They fought in 1948, and India wound up with the most desirable three-fifths of the state and most of its population. Their war three months ago changed the boundary somewhat but not the basic problem.

To Judge By
Pakistani Information Minister Aitaz Gauhar declared the summit's success must be judged "in terms of the success we have in dealing with basic problems."

"Our relationship with India," he told newsmen, "will be constructed or it will collapse on the plank of Kashmir. We are here to save the relationship from collapsing."

C. S. Jha, India's foreign secretary, told reporters Ayub's statement was "couched in moderate language," but India's view on Kashmir is unchanged.

"There are matters that are not negotiable—the question of national sovereignty, for example," he said.

No 'Name Calling' In Reagan Primary
Los Angeles (AP) — Actor Ronald Reagan became a Republican candidate for governor Tuesday and promised to wage a primary election campaign "without name calling or personalities."

"If in the coming primary you choose someone else to be the party nominee, he will have my wholehearted support," Reagan said on statewide television.

The handsome 54-year-old host of the television series "Death Valley Days" is following a path blazed in 1964 by another Hollywood personality, George Murphy. Republican Murphy was elected U.S. senator from California.

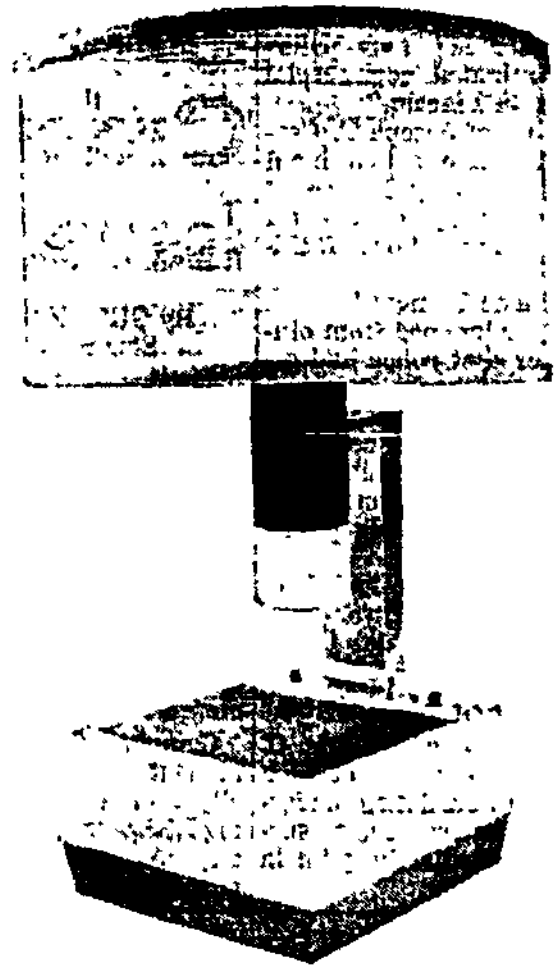

If Reagan wins the primary—and then the general election—he will take over a $44.100-a-year job as chief executive of the nation's most populous state and become a powerful figure in national politics.

In front of him stands the threat of another of California's bitter Republican primaries.

Republicans calling themselves moderates are backing two other announced candidates, former Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco and Los Angeles attorney Laughlin E. Waters, who once served in the assembly and as United States attorney for Southern California.

Voter Approval Ruled Needed For Grandstand

... At Red Willow Fairgrounds

The State Justice Department Tuesday ruled that the Red Willow County Board cannot levy a special tax or make a special appropriation for more than $10,000 to construct a new county fair grandstand without first receiving voter approval.

The Justice Department also declared that the board cannot make an emergency appropriation to finance the proposed project.

State Fire Marshal Joseph Divis in November ordered that the present grandstand be rebuilt or torn down.

Red Willow County Atty. J. D. Wood Jr. of McCook asked the Justice Department what statutory limitations are on the county board in financing construction of a new grandstand.

Assistant Atty. Gen. C. C. Sheldon, in an opinion approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer, replied that construction of a grandstand falls under the same $10,000 limitation as does construction of a county courthouse and a county-wide vote on the proposed grandstand project would be necessary if it is to cost more than $10,000.

Sheldon also doubted that the situation could be classified as an emergency.

"That the existence of a county fair grandstand is essential to the preservation and maintenance of the county welfare is highly improbable," he said.

He also noted that the "untenable condition of the present grandstand (of which the condemnation of the state fire marshal was the result rather than the cause) must have been manifest to county authorities prior to the time of fixing the budget for the current fiscal year."

Man Held On Murder Count Found Dead

Kearney (UPI)—The body of a young man being held on a murder charge was found hanging by his red and white dress shirt from a top bunk Tuesday evening in the juvenile section of the Buffalo County Jail.

Sheriff Lloyd Frank said Felix Moreno, 18, Kearney, was found dead by Deputy Sheriff David Drage, the jailer, when Drage took him his meal about 6:30 p.m.

Duane Hubbard, deputy county attorney and acting coroner, will release an official finding, Frank said.

The sheriff said Moreno showed no signs of despondency but that a doctor had attended him several times because the youth seemed nervous. The latest visit was Monday.

Moreno met Tuesday afternoon with his court-appointed attorney and his sister-in-law.

Frank said the youth had taken his dress shirt and torn it into strips to fashion a noose. His body was taken to the Anderson and Johnson Mortuary where arrangements were pending.

Moreno was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond in the New Year's day fatal stabbing of Cipriano Lopez, 21, also of Kearney. Moreno was charged with second-degree murder in a complaint filed by County Atty. Andrew McMullen.

Farmers Said Able To Bargain

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Weston—Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization claimed here Tuesday evening that for the first time in history the NFO has established collective bargaining as a reality for the American farmer.

Milo A. Bartek, Saunders County NFO chairman, said 800 attended the pancake-sausage feed here.

Staley, in outlining NFO programs of moving grain and livestock production in volume sales for members, claimed six of the nation's 15 major meat processors are now accepting supplies from NFO in volume production.

"Farmers bargaining and selling together can meet the strong power of chain stores, and processors not dealing with the NFO might find themselves left in a vacuum as NFO negotiates for the first time in history in moving the supply of livestock and grain from cheap to high-priced areas," Staley said.

Staley announced the inauguration of what he termed a major saturation membership drive to double NFO membership on a national basis.

"We are aiming for sources of supply so great that any processors not accepting NFO supplies won't be able to get enough production to maintain operation," Staley said.

He described the NFO grain program of placing county-wide supplies in position for group sale as one that is "upsetting market practices of the past."

Staley acknowledged that discussions have been in progress between the NFO and another major farm organization on agricultural problems.

When asked if another major farm organization was discussing merger with the NFO, Staley said, "No comment at this time."

It had been reported from knowledgeable sources that a high Grange official had met with NFO officials in Corning, Iowa. Staley said that the relationship with the Grange has been very friendly.

Russian Greek Orthodox Church Fund Drive Set

McKeesport, Pa. (UPI) — The head of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Archdiocese here Tuesday began a drive to raise funds to rebuild the St. Michael Cathedral in Sitka, Alaska.

The cathedral, built before 1865 when Alaska was still a Russian territory under the czars, was destroyed by fire Sunday.

The Rt. Rev. Peter M. Kreta, administrator of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Archdioceses of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church of America, said special collections will be taken "at the earliest possible Sunday in each parish."

Encouragement—Lots Of It—Necessary As City Dentist Builds Harpsichord

By GARY GRAUL
Star Staff Writer

What does a dentist do with his spare time?

If the dentist is Dr. D. James McCabe, he builds a harpsichord.

For those who don't know what a harpsichord is, it's a musical instrument that looks like a grand piano and sounds like well, it sounds like a harpsichord.

2 Others in City

Harpsichords are quite rare — especially the home-built variety. "We know of two others in Lincoln," says Dr. McCabe. "One was made from a kit like this one, and the other was brought over from Germany."

The harpsichord "kit," sold by Zuckerman Co. of New York, consists of a few pieces of wire and metal, some plastic parts that only a professional could make and an instruction booklet.

The instruction booklet doesn't exactly make harpsichord-building as easy as connect-the-dots. It contains, as McCabe states it, "a few directions, some advice, and lots of encouragement—mostly encouragement."

The necessity of encouragement can be seen from the fact that the harpsichord has been slowly taking shape in the basement of McCabe's home at 2734 Anderson since last March.

Police Check Reports Of 2 Ak Bridge Plunges

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha police were told Tuesday afternoon that a neat-appearing man plunged into the ice-filled Missouri River after telling a passerby:

"My wife just went over. I have nothing else to live for."

That report from a Lake Manawa, Iowa, man followed one of a woman dropping from the Ak-Sar-Ben bridge into the river a few hours earlier.

Police were investigating both reports.

Cab driver William Dewey, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Roger Lalson, also of Council Bluffs, both told police they saw the figure of a woman topple from the bridge railing about 8:30 a.m.

About 1:45 p.m., Herman H. Still, Lake Manawa, an employee of an excavating company, came to Central Police Station to report the second incident.

He told Detective Lt. Clarence Wilson he was driving west across the bridge that links Omaha and Council Bluffs when he saw a man sitting on the bridge railing at about the spot where the woman was seen earlier.

Tried To Grab Man

Still said he stopped and talked to the man who told him that his wife had jumped. Still said he asked the man if he had any children. The stranger did not answer.

Lt. Wilson said Still told him he tried to grab the man but failed and the man jumped.

Still said the last he saw of the man, he was in the water in the middle of the channel. Still said the man disappeared before he could get help.

Still described the man as about 40 to 45 years old, about 210 pounds, heavy set with a round face. He was described as wearing an orange-billed cap, a black bow tie, long gray overcoat, a brown suit and rimless glasses.

Law, Order, Responsibility

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

We frequently lump together matters of law, order and responsibility as though they were synonymous, when they are actually three different things. We find them all in the background of the current strike of transit workers in New York City. The New York bus and subway operation is a municipally owned and operated function and therefore a totally public one—owned by and operated for the public.

The responsibilities and rights of such an operation and those in its employ gained great prominence in the public eye a long time ago. In fact, the matter is credited by some with having produced the 30th President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge. Toward the end of summer in 1919, the police of Boston attempted to organize a union among themselves and to gain recognition of such by city officials. Official reports have it that, receiving no satisfaction in their demands, the police went on strike. Coolidge at the time was governor of Massachusetts and called out the state guard to assume the duties of Boston police.

Coolidge expressed his position thusly: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time." That appealed greatly to a nation concerned with labor troubles on many fronts and not yet conditioned to the need for and benefits of the labor movement.

Coolidge had a good and proper grasp of the law as it was understood at that time and as it would come to be more fully developed in the future, but did he have a grasp of his responsibility? A Boston policeman on the force for 20 years was making in 1919 a total of $75 a month for a 12-hour day, seven days a week. In the wartime economy of the day, many people were earning $25 a day.

The fact is that the Boston police could not live and support their families on the wages they were paid but Governor Coolidge never talked nor did anything about that situation. And whether the Boston police actually went on strike is a matter of debate. Some accounts of the day would show they did but eyewitness testimony to the times says they did not, that they even cleared the streets for entry of the state guard. No doubt, Massachusetts law and perhaps Boston law, too, forbids a strike by Boston policemen today. But Boston has also shouldered its responsibility to pay its policemen a decent wage and give them decent working conditions. That is the other side of laws concerning the public welfare.

In Nebraska, the pertinent law concerning labor relations and the public welfare was the product of a man who is once again in the news. Speaking against "jungle tactics," Gov. Val Peterson introduced to the 1947 Legislature an act establishing the Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations. Peterson, of course, is now a candidate for governor again on the Republican ticket. His law implemented a 1920 state constitutional enabling provision and came as two major strikes hit Lincoln—strikes against the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company and against Lincoln City Lines. The new law was never instrumental in the settlement of those strikes and two years later much of the field involved was preempted by the National Labor Relations Board.

Now, all private utilities, communication and transportation facilities with a gross operating revenue of more than $250,000 come within the jurisdiction of NLRB. This, of course, includes both LT & T and Lincoln City Lines. Too, both would probably come under the NLRB as a result of interstate rather than intrastate operations.

If under Nebraska law, employees of neither firm could strike but the National Labor Relations Act specifically protects the right to strike of employees regulated under the law. The NLRB provides only temporary injunctive relief against strikes.

The Nebraska law forbids strikes by employees in general government service, of governmental proprietary functions and employees of public utilities, meaning both publicly and privately owned utilities, communications and transportation facilities not under the jurisdiction of federal laws. The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations can also settle industrial disputes between employees and government in proprietary functions (utilities) and between employees and public utilities as defined above. It has no jurisdiction, except by mutual application of parties involved, between employees and government in general government service.

Firemen are also under the court's jurisdiction by action of the 1965 Legislature. Employees forbidden to strike but not otherwise under jurisdiction of the court must rely in all grievances on the exercise of responsibility by their respective governing bodies. Thus, the average employee of a public governmental body cannot strike but should enjoy the protection of an enlightened and responsible electorate and employer. To impose upon him the law and deny him the benefit of the responsibility would be an injustice and tend to break down the former. Order, then, is the product of both law and responsibility, leaving none of the three a substitute for the other.

"... Peace Mongers ..."

DREW PEARSON Link Sen. Rivers With John Birchers

Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is in the Holy Land, during his absence the column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON—The Democrats have enjoyed hugely the discomfort of the Republican party as it has struggled to wrench itself loose from the John Birch Society without jarring the campaign chest which rightwing contributors help fill.

But it looks as if the Republicans may now have the last laugh. They have dug up evidence that the Democratic party also has its John Birch sympathizers.

One of the discoveries is that Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee, has defended the John Birch Society and praised its founder, Robert Welch.

Rivers is held in such high esteem in his native South Carolina that he has already been cast in heroic bronze to take his place alongside Robert E. Lee, Pierre Beauregard, and other Southern heroes who have been immortalized in granite and metal.

The latter were obliged to wait until they were dead and gone to have monuments erected in their honor. But grateful businessmen, who have benefited from the military bases Rivers has brought to South Carolina, have rushed history for their white-manned bourbon imbibing congressman.

A noble, life-size bronze bust of Rivers now gazes majestically down from a seven-foot, solid granite shaft upon Rivers Avenue in North Charleston, S.C. The road, known elsewhere as Route 52, was previously named in his honor.

The congressman's influence in Washington is such that a glittering entourage of admirals, generals and civilian dignitaries flew down to South Carolina in Air Force planes and stood in a downpour for the unveiling. An equally impressive assemblage turned up a year earlier in the tiny South Carolina town of Saint Stephen to help celebrate "L. Mendel Rivers Day."

No doubt they were motivated more by Rivers' power over military legislation than his views on the John Birch Society.

However, the Republicans have unearthed a speech, delivered by Rivers on March 22, 1961, extolling the society as "a nationwide organization of patriotic Americans whose dedication to their country is epitomized in their aim to bring about less government, more responsibility, and a better world."

Rivers also praised "its courageous and perceptive founder, Robert Welch," then went on to suggest that attacks on the society were taken straight out of communist propaganda.

The Republicans can now point out that the Birch-hailing Rivers is one of the most powerful Democrats in Washington.

Conflict between the governor and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh is much discussed — too much by Brown's people. The truth is that the horses just aren't running for Unruh, and he knows it. He is bitter and requires watching but the salt in his wounds is superfluous.

The governor's biggest problem is not people but the demonstrable erosion in Democratic strength since they swept the field in 1958. Richard Nixon carried the state against John F. Kennedy in 1960 and, although Nixon went down before Brown in 1962, the Democratic state returns in 1964 were disappointing.

President Johnson easily prevailed but an actor, George Murphy, a conservative Republican, defeated a Kennedy man, Pierre Salinger, for senator, shutting Democrats out of that important forum for the present.

The governor's own second term has been less happy and successful than his first, apart from the inevitable accumulation of liabilities. Then there is that third-term hurdle.

Murphy's victory encourages the right-wing Republicans, who admit no peril in a Reagan candidacy.

Three Way Fight For Power

NEW YORK—Crystal ball gazers at UN see the year 1966 in these terms: A mounting rivalry between Red China and the Soviet Union for broad domination of the communist world; concurrent if separate drives by Moscow and Peking to undermine U.S. influence in UN and vilify the United States in Asia, Africa and Latin America as the power-mad imperialist.

For the first time since the Cuban missile crisis and U.S.-Soviet confrontation, the spectre of a nuclear war hatched in Southeast Asia and prodded along by Red China is creeping to the forefront of possible future developments. But the majority of experts are still optimistic and maintain that a nuclear war is not in the cards, at least not for 1966. They do see a strong probability of general escalation of military operations in Viet Nam and give a poor rating to the chances for peace in Southeast Asia by peace conference procedure.

The UN diplomats foresee President Johnson in 1966 as the man of the year in impact and decision on world affairs; neither Moscow nor Peking will be able to paint a false image on American action abroad in opposing communist militant expansionism and "wars of liberation" or American economic aid and food shipments to distressed nations. Predictions are that Prime Minister Harold Wilson will be the most important ally of President Johnson, with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard a close second. But all foresee a declining role and influence for French President De Gaulle.

The year 1966 is seen as one in which much will be heard and shouldered on behalf of peace by Pope Paul VI. On that same track, they point out UN Secretary General U Thant as a man doing some "quiet diplomacy" in keeping the rule of law in the world from going entirely to pot. I am going to desert the unnamed crystal ball leaders at this time to let U Thant look back over 1965 and ahead at 1966:

"Looking at the prospects for international peace and security, I believe that we must be realistic. Quite clearly, the world as a whole does not seem ready to turn a new leaf, although there are some grounds for believing that the vicissitudes and dangers—as well as the successes—of 1965 will stimulate stronger and better concerted efforts in 1966 to surmount the obstacles to real peace, and to the changes that people would give to the betterment of the lives of all peoples everywhere."

"The year 1965 began in an atmosphere of disappointment and pessimism, which persisted for many months. The earlier promise of a genuine relaxation of tensions among nations faded away. The poorer two-thirds of the world became poorer still, relative to the other third. Within UN, the financial crisis brought us close to a crisis of confidence in the organization itself after its first twenty years. And over all these setbacks loomed the growing dangers of a nuclear armament race and even of large-scale war."

"It would be idle to pretend that these clouds of anxiety have been dispersed. But, in UN, we have seen the member states come collectively to realize that they need more than ever the peace-keeping and peace-making capacity of the organization. We have seen them make an effort to rescue UN from its difficulties and to allow all its organs to function normally and its constructive activities to continue and expand. In the past few weeks we saw the General Assembly — more representative than ever — taking constructive steps with resoundingly positive votes towards securing the foundations of peace."

"I am thinking, in particular, of the actions taken by the Assembly towards a universal world disarmament conference, towards negotiations to stop the spread of nuclear weapons, towards the outlawing of intervention by subversion or otherwise in the internal affairs of nations, towards the emergence into freedom of the remaining dependent peoples, and towards the better planning and coordination of international technical cooperation and a more systematic attack on problems of trade, industrialization and development in general."

"Outside UN, but of unmistakable import to international relations, we have witnessed dramatic and challenging new successes in science and technology — both within the earth's atmosphere and beyond it — that prove once again that the resourcefulness of man knows no boundaries when he has the chance and the will to exercise it."

And this is where I come in with a sum up: Happy New Year and keep your fingers crossed in the storms and taxes ahead!

The Meaning

Lake Worth, Fla. It appears from subsequent criticisms in The Star's letter column of the Santa Claus letter in the December 17 issue that the writers overlooked the obvious meaning that "Patriot" intended to convey — that his jibes at Santa Claus were by way of deriding critics who denounce the anti-Viet Nam war demonstrations as being disloyal or subtly instigated by Red agitators.

"Patriot's" derision may also apply to certain insinuations that these same critics of protest demonstrations may themselves be tinged with red, even though "brain-washed" by the John Birch Society.

As to the draft's ever being applied as punishment for anything, the very first word in the induction notices mailed to World War I draftees was "Congratulations!"

ERLE A. SULLIVAN

Trade School

Hastings, Neb. The State Supreme Court ruled that the city of Hastings need not recognize Local 507 International Brotherhood of Electric Workers in negotiating hours and wages. The employees of the public works department of the city are members of this local union and they believed they had the right to be represented by a union member in such negotiating. Furthermore, the court rules that public agencies need not recognize a union.

It is evident that this ruling becomes the law in Nebraska as the decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court become the law of the land. But the state ruling creates a spirit of animosity in the ranks of organized labor in Nebraska at a time when many political subdivisions of Nebraska are making plans to develop industrial areas. As organized labor is under no obligation to public agencies that need not recognize a union, how can Nebraska develop as an industrial state without the support of organized labor?

The public agencies that are desirous of establishing a vocational technical school (trade school) at the Naval Ammunition Depot at Hastings should not expect organized labor to favor that school, as organized labor prefers the apprenticeship system of training skilled workers. If two educational associations favor the establishment of the proposed school, then the voters in a 17-county area must vote on the proposition, as each county must pay its share of the taxes to maintain the trade school.

STEPHEN E. BROWN

A Protest

Lincoln, Neb.

The year 1966 dawns, and with it comes an old problem under a new name. The area between 21st and 27th from P Street to the Rock Island tracks is attracting serious attention. Of the 2,138 housing units there, 836 are to be renovated, 637 to be rehabilitated, and 200 to be demolished, according to the announcement. We are not sure what significance attaches to these ponderous terms, but when we learn that the project is estimated to cost $25 million, we are sure we have reason to anticipate trouble. You warn all and sundry to brace themselves for our protests, and you are 100% correct. In America we have the blessed right to protest when we find it necessary.

The lead editorial in the January 1 Star suggests that the accomplishment of the project might be hindered by misunderstanding and ignorance. Again we agree! We fail to understand, and are densely ignorant of how $25 million can be achieved with as little income as we of this section have available.

Taxes for 1965 increased over former years by 28%. We hardly pick up a paper without reading of another appropriation for a new item of progress. But most of us in this neighborhood live on low salaries or on renting out housing units. Closing the Air Base leaves many rental units vacant. Even people as ignorant as we are understand that we are not in position to undertake either renovation or rehabilitation to the tune of $25 million.

"Government loans!" someone shouts. But where does the government get money to loan? Our government is a product of the people; we learned that in grade school. We learned that it has no money except what we, the people, pay into it. Also, a government loan means a mountainous debt to repay, plus interest, no matter how low.

Most important of all, our government is at war in Viet Nam (perhaps the BLC has not noticed that). But we know that the needs are tremendous, and that federal assessments are due to increase. As a patriotic duty, we feel that repairs and expansion should be resolutely put aside during this emergency.

"I'm afraid there's nothing we can do even if you DID meet your wife in our store."

Retirement Looks Good

We have long had a mental image in this country of the retired man sitting in a rocker on the front porch, his life slipping away from him as he pined for working days of old. The image was so real that we managed to convince a lot of people of its inevitability and, thereby, contribute some to its fulfillment. Retirement was supposed to be a dark day and a time of difficult adjustment, so a lot of people managed to make it that.

But recent years have seemed to bring a change in attitudes. More and more, one hears of people looking forward to retirement and hears from those in retirement of just what a great life it is. The specter of life all but ending with the end of regular working days is one that seems to haunt us no longer.

Proof of this as well as some explanation of it is found in the retirement records of the United States Civil Service Commission. A total of about 40,000 federal employees have retired in the past two months, the equivalent of 1 percent of the total government labor force.

The rate is exceedingly high because of a special federal retirement provision that expired Dec. 31, 1965. The government's retirement program is based on the employee's five highest earning years which encourages people to stay on longer, rise in pay and increase their ultimate retirement benefits.

The last Congress, however, passed a bill designed to give credit for retirement purposes for future higher income levels to those eligible who would retire before Dec. 31. Thousands of them did so, proving that all retirement needs for popularity is a measure of economic security.

Army Landmark Gone

Fort Jay, the Governors Island, New York, Army stronghold, is gone. With the coming of 1966, the Army removed its property, probably forever, turned the site over to the Coast Guard, and marched away over the horizon. And that was the end of an era.

The site was acquired from the Indians in 1637 for two axe heads, a string of beads and a few nails. The early day bargainer who thought up the deal was Wouter Van Twiller, a resident of the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam which later became New York.

The first American troops to occupy the island were in the command of General George Washington. It was a brief occupancy because the Colonials at that moment were retreating to a better foothold on

Tawes To Sign For Medicare

Baltimore (AP) — J. Millard Tawes of Maryland will become the nation's first governor to sign up for medicare this week because of a routine survey by Social Security officials.

During a campaign to find persons who never had applied for retirement benefits in order to tell them about medicare, the Tawes name turned up on a list compiled in cooperation with Maryland's central payroll bureau in Annapolis.

Miss Dorothy Dye, Social Security field representative, then made an appointment to get applications from the governor and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Tawes will join Social Security and medicare rolls Thursday, in a ceremony in the governor's Annapolis office.

When Tawes turns 72 in April — he's the nation's oldest governor — he and his wife will become eligible for monthly payments of $203.90.

California Evacuations Caused By Rain, Floods

Eureka, Calif. (AP) — Heavy rains flooded streams north and south of Eureka Tuesday, forcing more than 1,000 persons to evacuate lowlands.

Other hundreds were isolated.

The same storm flooded streams in western Oregon and forced evacuation of several hundred families.

The first big storm of 1966 also unloaded heavy snow in the northern mountains, closing or interrupting traffic on major highways to Nevada and Oregon.

A snowslide in Oregon cut Southern Pacific Railroad service between Portland and Oakland, Calif. A rockslide blocked Western Pacific traffic in the Feather River Canyon.

Bus Drifted In

A bus with 43 passengers got caught in a snowdrift near Dunsuir, 100 miles east of Eureka, and was stalled 14 hours later. The passengers waited in nearby lodgings.

Many of the flooding creeks and rivers in Humboldt and Del Norte Counties in northwestern California had caused some of the 23 deaths and a billion dollars damages in the Christmas week floods of 1964. But their flood levels this time had not reached those of 1964.

The town of Orick, 50 miles north of Eureka, was abandoned by its population of more than 700 because Redwood Creek went over its banks.

In the Eel River Valley south of Eureka, National Guardsmen helped evacuate 75 families.

Danger to Levees

Because of the danger to levees, the Army Corps of Engineers at San Francisco sent 16 men by plane to Eureka and Crescent City to maintain a 24-hour watch.

Authorities studying the situation said a repetition of the 1964 floods was unlikely unless the heavy rains continue several days.

Snow, wind, poor visibility and traffic, snarled closed sections of Interstate 5 from South of Dunsuir to the Oregon border.

In Donner Pass, it was tough and go for Interstate 80 to Nevada — now open, now closed.

Howling winds up to 80 miles an hour piled snowdrifts in the Lake Tahoe and Squaw Valley areas.

In southwestern Oregon, in addition to flooding, heavy snow closed roads at intervals; more than 250 bus passengers were held up at one truck stop; power lines were broken. The storm closed schools there and just south of the Oregon border in California around Dunsuir, Weed and Mt. Shasta.

Transport Strike Called In London

London (UPI) — Between 200 and 300 members of the London transport supervisory staff called a wildcat strike Tuesday in a dispute over wages and hours.

Those who walked off the job included foremen, inspectors and senior storemen.

A transport spokesman said buses and subways would not be affected.

"Representatives of the supervisors have said that the stoppage is for one day only," the spokesman said. "Bus and tube (subway) services are not affected."

The spokesman said he assumed the walkout arose from dissatisfaction with the terms of a contract the supervisors and London transport agreed to last year.

Two African Nation Revolts Being Studied

Washington (AP) — The State Department is carefully studying the situation in Upper Volta and in the Central African Republic, the two countries where armies seized power in the last three days.

This was the only answer Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department's spokesman, gave to newsmen asking for an assessment of the series of military coups in Africa, which began in the Congo in November.

McCloskey said, however, that according to preliminary reports from the embassies all Americans in Upper Volta and the Central African Republic are safe.

There are 287 Americans in the Central African Republic including 22 officials and their 22 dependents.

The number in Upper Volta is 157, including 37 officials and dependents.

OUSTED

Upper Volta President Maurice Yameogo, above, was deposed Tuesday by the army after four days of demonstrations against government austerity measures.

Yameogo said the coup had his full support. Lt. Col. Sangoule Lamizana, chief of staff, said he had taken over power as chief of state of the African former French colony.

St. John's Teachers Hold Strike

New York (UPI) — A teacher's union staged the first American college faculty strike Tuesday at St. John's University, one of the largest Roman Catholic schools in the world.

Spokesmen for the United Federation of College Teachers (UFCT) claimed that 200 teachers remained away from their classes at the 13,000-student university. The administration said only 43 faculty members, mostly from the liberal arts college, joined the strike.

At 61 issue were the reinstatement of 31 fired professors, most of them UFCT members, and the union's demand for faculty participation in the formulation of academic policy. The Rev. Joseph T. Kinnelly, special council to the board of trustees, said it would not negotiate with the union's 75-member local or accept the offer of a mediator from Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Dr. Israel Kugler, president of the UFCT, said the teachers would remain on the picket line "until this dispute is settled." He said the liberal arts college was "inoperable" but admitted the university's professional schools were not seriously affected and the students were for the most part apathetic.

The administration claimed that 90% of its 5,000 students showed up at its Queens campus and 50% of 2,000 at the Brooklyn campus, but pointed out that the subway-bus strike probably had prevented many from getting to Brooklyn.

However, Kugler and the Rev. Peter O'Reilly, chairman of the St. John's local of the union, issued a mid-morning statement claiming "complete success" of the walk-out.

Burglar Greeted Victim On Way Out Of House

Police were looking for a man who burglarized a home and then greeted the owner of the home as he walked out the door.

The burglar was rummaging through the house of Gelbert Griess, 1329 C. when Mr. Griess returned home through the back door. As the burglar left through the front door he met Mrs. Griess who was entering the home.

The burglar greeted Mrs. Griess and then went on his way with some $63 he had taken from the Griess home.

State Department Wins Security Risk Bickering

Washington (UPI) — A tug-of-war was revealed Tuesday between the State Department and congressional investigators over a 10-year-old list of 800 possible department security risks.

The State Department won. It refused to give the list to the Senate internal security subcommittee, citing a 1948 directive forbidding the transfer of any records dealing with the loyalty of employees without the permission of the President.

The Senate committee sought the 1955 list as part of its investigation of State Department security in 1963. The committee Tuesday released previously secret testimony dealing with its efforts to secure the information. The testimony was given two years ago.

Rusk Didn't Know

The list was such a well-kept secret that William J. Crockett, the deputy under-secretary for administration, admitted that neither he nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk knew of its existence until the committee informed them.

Crockett conceded that. "Frankly, we had a very difficult time finding the lists in the office of security."

At the end of 1955, Crockett said all State Department employees including the 800 had been cleared after an evaluation of information and allegation against them.

"Of these 800 or so, 258 were indeed by the office of security to show that they had been cleared after the evaluation of information which had raised 'major' questions," Crockett said.

He said that of the 258, 92 employees had left and 71 had been re-investigated and re-cleared.

Crockett promised that the 95 employees still on the rolls and not re-investigated or cleared between 1956 and 1964 would get priority investigations.

The list of 800 was first brought to the attention of the subcommittee by Otto F. Otepka, a chief State Department security evaluation officer, who was dismissed for giving the subcommittee information.

Otepka said he granted clearances to a majority of the more than 800 but that he also recommended a large number for dismissal as security risks.

The former security officer said the list included allegations and evidence of actual membership in the Communist Party; actual membership in adjuncts of the Communist Party; a actual membership in communist-front organizations; knowingly associating with espionage agents; membership in the Fascist Party or fascist organization in other countries; sexual perversion; immoral conduct; notoriously disgraceful conduct and false statements.

Car Junking Business Hit By Residents

Residents living on the Waverly Road about one mile west of U.S. 77 appeared before the Lancaster County Board Tuesday requesting that something be done about a car junking operation adjacent to their properties.

Chief Deputy County Atty. William Blue explained that the county is limited by the state law and is unable to deal with the situation under present laws.

It was pointed out that the proposed zoning code, under consideration by the board, may be a means for controlling such situations.

In other action, the board approved the appointment of three persons to serve as counselors in the newly created conciliation court.

Those approved, upon the recommendation of Conciliation Court Judge William Hastings, are: A. R. McCorkle, case worker supervisor for the Family Service Association; the Rev. N. J. J. Van Gruensven, director of the Catholic Marriage Counseling Service, and the Rev. George Edgar, chaplain at the Lincoln State Hospital.

The three have volunteered to serve without pay.

the fact that the salaries are set for four years at a time should be factors in the commissioners' decision in fixing the salaries.

The Commissioners took no action on the requests Tuesday but must do so by Jan. 9 according to law.

The requested increases would total $37,300 for the nine officials whose salaries are not set by the Legislature.

Increases of $4,500 were asked for the assessor and clerk and $4,300 was requested for the sheriff. Each of the other office holders asked $4,000 for his respective offices.

Listed below are the present annual salaries set in 1962 for 1963-66 and the requested salaries for 1967-1970:

	Present Salary	Requested Salary
Mayor	$2,500	$2,500

Schools Without Policy

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

A policy guiding acceptance or rejection of freeholder petitions from patrons of non-accredited high school districts, upheld by a State Supreme Court ruling announced Tuesday, has not yet been formulated by the Lincoln board of Education.

Board attorney Willis Hecht was directed by the board and Supt. Steven Watkins at an Aug. 10 meeting to "devise a workable policy" for dealing with freeholder petitions requesting a transfer of land from non-accredited districts to the accredited Lincoln schools which, by law, the school board must either accept or reject.

At that meeting the board approved its first and only application for change of school district boundaries according to the 1963 legislative provision. The action enabled students of the George Wood and Lawson Bird families to attend Lincoln Southeast High School instead of non-accredited Walton High.

'Inclusive' Policy

However, Hecht, who prepared what he described as an "inclusive" policy as opposed to an "exclusive" policy, said the board had not yet called for his recommendations for consideration.

He advocates a general policy which provides for automatic approval of a freeholder petition if it meets all necessary legal requirements and is "adjacent to the school district or within a certain distance—to be determined by the board—in an area likely to be developed."

Territory outside the prescribed limits would not necessarily be automatically rejected but would get individual attention by the school board, according to Hecht's proposal.

At the same time, Wekesser pointed out, in most cases the taxes derived from land added by freeholder petitions does not compare to tuition paid by students residing outside the district. Tuition, $595 for a secondary student per year, is set at per pupil cost, he explained.

For example, property worth $10,000, taxed at 35% of actual value, only would pay $149.80 per year for school taxes under Lincoln's 42.8 mill levy.

Hecht had urged the Board of Education to adopt some policy on acceptance of freeholder petitions when the first two applications were considered by the board, but noted Tuesday the permissive legislation "hasn't developed into as much of a problem as we thought it might. We haven't received one petition since."

Court Upholds Freeholder Law

... IN SCHOOL TRANSFER CASE

The State Supreme Court Tuesday upheld the constitutionality of the freeholder's petition law under which property can be transferred from a nonaccredited to an accredited high school district.

The high court said the state "is supreme in the creation and control of school districts" and may if it thinks proper, modify district boundaries or even destroy districts without the approval of residents.

The court thus affirmed a Franklin District Court decision permitting the transfer of the land of Harm De Jonge from the non-accredited Bloomington District to the accredited Hildreth District.

The Bloomington District in fighting the transfer had contended the freeholder's petition law was arbitrary and vague and tends to damage nonaccredited high school districts.

"If, as appellants suggest, the law will destroy nonaccredited high school districts, that is a matter for legislative discretion," the court declared in a unanimous decision. "We have often said that the fixing of boundaries of school districts is exclusively a legislative function."

The high court also rejected contentions of the Bloomington District that the change of boundaries would not be in the public interest and De Jonge failed to sufficiently show the need for the transfer.

"We are not unmindful of the fact that in this time of educational emphasis, meeting college entrance requirements is becoming increasingly important," the court said. "The high school graduate from a school which for many of several reasons cannot gain accreditation in most instances will be at a disadvantage when competing for college entrance with graduates of accredited high schools."

"The Legislature may well have decided that the public welfare demanded a method by which those high school students resident in nonaccredited high school districts could attend high schools which had met the higher standards required for accreditation."

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller hailed the decision as "a Magna Carta for the high school students who have been captive for years in districts unable to provide adequate educational programs no matter how hard they tried or how sincere their efforts."

He predicted the decision will spur school district reorganization efforts and "provide a stimulus to improve education at all levels."

He said the logical solution to many of Nebraska's educational problems is consolidation of school districts rather than the taxing of residents of present districts to an extreme degree.

In other rulings Tuesday the court:

—Reversed the Douglas District Court decision granting Mrs. Marie M. Fowler of Omaha a new trial in a suit involving injuries suffered by her in a Jan. 23, 1965, traffic accident.

The high court ordered that a jury verdict requiring Benson Bachus of Omaha to pay $10,000 for Mrs. Fowler's injuries be reinstated.

Mrs. Fowler had contended the jury did not allow an adequate amount for damages.

—Affirmed a Buffalo District Court dismissal of an action by United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. against Missouri Valley Construction Co. of Grand Island to recover payments made by the insurance firm due to the death of Nicholas J. W. Shada in a 1959 accident.

—Affirmed a Douglas District Court jury verdict awarding Mrs. Grace Watts of Omaha $8,000 each from the Mutual of Omaha Insurance Co. and George Zedler, an employee of the company, as a result of injuries suffered in a Jan. 1962, traffic accident.

—Affirmed a Hayes District Court jury decision valuing at $6,742 crops on a tract of state school land in Hayes County.

Mrs. Jessie O'Neill and Mrs. and Mrs. Laron Haaberg had disputed the value of the crops in transferring the tract lease from Mrs. O'Neill to the Haabergs.

The Haabergs appealed the jury verdict to the Supreme Court.

—Affirmed a Hayes District Court ruling which upheld the conveyance of an Alma apartment house from the late Henry Wilcox to Vera Wilcox, a daughter in law. Two brothers and a sister of the late Mrs. Margaret Wilcox, wife of Henry Wilcox, had fought the conveyance.

School Fund Decision Delay Termed Critical

A State Education Department official Tuesday labeled as critical a delay in consideration of six Nebraska applications for federal education funds.

C. Edward Cavert said federal officials originally promised to announce their judgments on the applications by Dec. 17, but an unexpected nationwide deluge of project proposals caused the delay.

"Some of our projects were ready to go in October or November," said Cavert, "but now it looks like it will be February or later before they actually go into operation."

Cavert is state administrator of Title Three of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act, under which Nebraska was allocated $689,615 for the current fiscal year to establish supplemental educational centers and services.

$949,851 Total

The six Nebraska applications sought a total of $949,851 in Title Three funds.

"Each day of delay just compounds our problems," Cavert said. "Most projects were based on a crash scheduling program even without the delay."

U. S. Steel Position Is Center Of Controversy

New York (AP) — The big question Tuesday in the price increase controversy between the steel industry and the Johnson administration was: what will U.S. Steel do?

The spotlight clearly was on Big Steel, since the administration announced no major additional moves in its attempt to force a rollback.

U.S. Steel has given no indication of any decision to join or not join the increase initiated last Friday by Bethlehem Steel Corp., the No. 2 producer, Inland Steel Corp. followed Monday. Small Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp. went along with a $3 increase, then postponed it. Administration pressure was having its effect though. The Virginia Department of Highways called off the award of construction contracts until further notice after being notified that federal-aid contracts would receive government approval only if the state and bidder showed the price of structural steel used was no higher than the price before Jan. 1.

Unjustified Increase The Johnson administration called the increase unjustified, inflationary and unpatriotic, and has ordered the Pentagon to quit buying steel from companies which failed to hold the price line.

If U.S. Steel goes along with the increase, it seemed likely that other companies would defy the government and follow.

If it doesn't, there was speculation that Bethlehem and Inland would have to bow to government pressure and rescind the boost.

Presidential Secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked by reporters if the administration had received any word from U.S. Steel on whether it might have any forthcoming announcement on prices.

"I can't say," he replied.

Moyers also said he knew of no personal conversations between the White House and Bethlehem.

Continuing Contact He said, however, the administration is continuing contacts with representatives of the steel industry in an effort to hold the price line. But Moyers refused to identify any of the companies contacted by the government.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. Tom Curtis of Missouri, ranking Republican on the House-Senate Economic Committee, called for public hearings on the steel price dispute. He said administration officials "so active in statements to the press should appear personally before Congress to be cross-examined about their policies."

U.S. Steel is playing a far different role from that in which it was cast in the 1962 price increase confrontation with the late President John F. Kennedy.

At that time, big steel initiated a $6 a ton across the board increase, with Roger Blough, company chairman, going to the White House to inform Kennedy of the decision.

An angry Kennedy mobilized the government's power and forced U.S. Steel to rescind the boost. Other companies that had gone along backed down.

It was a different role for Inland, too. On that occasion Inland broke ranks and refused to raise prices.

Bethlehem and Inland have said that their price increase is not inflationary. Bethlehem contended that with the use of new lightweight steel on big structures, the cost to builders is less than it was five years ago.

Klansman Wilkins Sent To Federal Institution

Birmingham, Ala. (AP) — A holiday break ended Tuesday for Ku Klux Klansman Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr. when he was handcuffed and whisked away to a federal correctional institution in Texas.

Wilkins, acquitted last May in state court of the fatal shooting of civil rights volunteer Viola Gregg Liuzzo, turned himself in at the U.S. marshal's office to begin serving a one-year prison term for a firearms law violation.

The 22-year-old Klansman had little to say, other than, "Get out of my way," to photographers when he dashed out of an elevator in the federal building and headed for the marshal's office. Wilkins' father was with him, along with Birmingham attorney Arthur Hanes.

Wilkins was sentenced to one year in federal prison by U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence W. Allgood on Dec. 20 when the judge ruled that Wilkins had violated probation provisions. Wilkins was convicted in November, 1964 of illegal possession of a sawed off shotgun, a federal offense.

Deputy marshals here said they could not disclose where

HUAC Finds Klan's Revival Ends Over Robe Sale Fight

Washington (AP) — A congressional inquiry heard Tuesday that a drive in Louisiana and Mississippi to revive the once Ku Klux Klan ended in a squabble over robe sale profits and a bonfire of records.

But other Klan groups welcomed into their ranks members of the short-lived "Original Knights" of the Ku Klux Klan.

This picture was developed with many questions and fewer answers as the House Un-American Activities Committee resumed its investigation of the various present-day organizations using the KKK symbol.

John D. Swenson of Bossier City, La., refused to tell the committee whether he was a Klan member, grand dragon or holder of the franchise to provide robes at $10 each. But when confronted with a subpoena for Klan records, he said, "Any records or documents that I had . . . this all was burned, destroyed completely."

Reds Enemy

Asked why he burned the papers, Swenson said, "so they wouldn't get into the hands of the enemy." And the enemy, he said, was "the communists."

Swenson, peppered with questions, stuck to that reply, or invoked the Fifth Amendment guaranteed against possible self incrimination in refusing to answer questions. The questions suggested that the enemies he wanted to keep the records from were really dissident Klan leaders who were looking for evidence that Swenson made handsome personal profits from sale of the ghostly Klan uniforms.

Swenson, who described himself as a self-employed man with a grade school education, claimed the Fifth Amendment privilege on all but a few questions. The committee, however, made public the transcript of a closed session last July 28 at which Royal Virgin Young, who described himself as a former imperial dragon or vice president, said, "The main charge, that caused all the trouble . . . was the manufacture of robes."

Young, a locomotive engineer from McDade, Bossier Parish, La., said he knew Swenson "did have the concession (for sale of robes), that he got the money, I am sure he did. How he distributed the money, or how he got it, I can't truthfully tell, because I don't know."

Tax Questions Among the questions Swenson refused to answer was whether he had reported on his income tax returns commissions of $4,473 in 1962, $10,690 in 1963 and $1,781 in 1964. The last year, committee investigators said, saw his overthrow by insurgent Klan leaders.

The committee has built up its version of the Original Knights' rise and fall: The organization began in the Shreveport area of northwest Louisiana about December, 1960, under the honorary leadership of Roy E. Davis of Dallas, who had been an old-time leader in the Klan during its heyday in the 1920's and 1930's. In three years the organization reached its strength, 2,000 to 2,500 persons organized in 40 to 50 Klaverns. Young, who testified he had been a junior Klansman in 1924, said he helped Swenson in organizational efforts and that Swenson began an expansion into Mississippi.

But just as the organization was reaching its peak, dissension broke out over the robe issue and finances generally.

HEW OKAYS FUNDS FOR ALLIANCE ETV

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved a $107,851 grant for construction of the transmitter and tower for educational television Channel 33 at Alliance, a state ETV network official said Tuesday.

The grant concludes federal allocations to Nebraska under the national ETV development program since the state has received the $1 million permitted each state.

William Ramsay, director of engineering for the state ETV network, said the Alliance project will cost a total of $508,358, with most of it financed with state cigarette tax receipts.

The Alliance station and North Platte Channel 9, which two months ago received federal approval, are scheduled to be in operation by next September.

Ramsay said construction permits for the two final channels in the $4 million, seven-station Nebraska network will not be obtained until late this year, when state funds under the cigarette tax are available to finance the projects.

Construction of Channel 7 at Bassett will cost an estimated $42,937, and Albion's Channel 21 carries a $470,247 price tag, he noted.

Ramsay said some surplus federal funds not used on ETV construction projects which cost less than originally anticipated may be available for the Bassett and Albion work.

The entire statewide ETV network is scheduled to be in operation by late 1967.

General's Jacket Is Found Near Airplane Debris

Seattle (AP) — Airplane debris and a flight jacket identified as belonging to Maj. Gen. I. L. Branch were found on Puget Sound Tuesday near where the Edwards Air Force Base commander's jet plane disappeared Monday.

VIET CONG AT MEET CLAIM LONG BATTLE

Havana (AP) — Delegates from the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam told an international conference of revolutionaries Tuesday the communists are prepared for a long struggle against U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Viet Cong delegate Tien Nguyen Van said the Armed Forces of Liberation, as the Viet Cong calls its guerrillas, are daily growing in efficiency and control 80% of South Viet Nam.

Tuyn Tran Danh of North Viet Nam accused the United States of bombing churches, hospitals and schools and "machine gunning men, women and children in the cities" as well as bombing military and strategic installations in North Viet Nam.

Both men said the war would continue as long as the United States refuses to withdraw all its troops from South Viet Nam and to stop bombing North Viet Nam.

The Vietnamese speakers received hearty applause from the delegates of socialist and communist organizations in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Foreign Minister Raul Rya presided as chairman of Tuesday's assembly, one of several open to newsmen before committees go behind closed doors for discussion of "the common struggle against imperialism, colonialism and neocolonialism."

Overinsurance Partly Blamed For Rising Costs Of Health Care

The Lincoln Star 11.
Wednesday, Jan. 5, 1966

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State Insurance Director Frank Barrett said Tuesday that "part of the spiraling costs of health care can be linked to overinsurance."

However, he emphasized that doctors, hospitals and the public as well as the insurance industry must meet the challenge of the growing health-cost problem.

"Overinsurance exists when an individual has a combination of insurance policies whereby he actually finds it profitable to go to a hospital," Barrett said.

This is in contrast to the acceptable practice of two or more policies covering completely the actual out-of-pocket costs of sickness.

"The (insurance) concept of spreading risk to avert individual financial disaster is being eroded away so that the public is looking upon insurance, service contracts and similar plans as they would the purchase of consumer goods," he said.

"This is dangerous because unnecessary utilization of health insurance increases both the cost of hospital and medical services and the insurance premium."

Barrett cautioned the public that insurance is purchased to protect the individual against financial disaster, not for medical services on the installment plan.

Barrett said employees must be educated that group health plans provided by employers "are not free," and continuation of this misconception will only add to increasing costs.

He suggested that the insurance industry isn't the only group that should be concerned with conservation of the health dollar.

Doctors should be instrumental in the formation of utilization and admissions committees in every community with a hospital, he said.

"These committees deal with the proper use of hospital facilities and assist in preventing abuses in admitting patients."

Barrett suggested that "independent contractors" for radiological and anesthesia services appear to be a cause of rising costs in hospital services.

"This may be a necessary and proper approach, but it does increase the costs," he added.

Barrett said both health care interests and the public must cooperate in finding solutions to the problem of increasing costs.

He warned against people relying too much on government to solve their problems.

"If people can't find solutions, then in all likelihood government, regardless of level, won't."

Labor Unit Position To Seamark

Gov. Frank Morrison Tuesday appointed Mark A. Seamark as director of the Department of Labor's Division of Employment.

Seamark, 32, has been the department's personnel officer since 1960 and was selected by the governor from three nominees submitted on the basis of merit system competitive examinations.

He succeeds William E. (Pat) Daugherty who resigned Sept. 15 to accept the post of budget officer in the Department of Administrative Services.

Noting Seamark's age was a major factor in his decision, Morrison said. "The state is very fortunate to have the caliber of young men, such as Mr. Seamark, willing to devote their career to public service."

Morrison said Seamark's appointment was effective immediately at a salary of $9,300.

As division director, Seamark will supervise 15 local employment offices and four sub-offices and 330 employees.

The career position is directly under Labor Commissioner Lambert Eitel.

Seamark was a graduate from Nebraska Wesleyan University in 1957 after serving in the Navy during the Korean conflict from 1951 to 1953.

Prior to joining the State Labor Department, he was with the Lancaster County Veterans Service Center, serving as director from 1958 to 1960.

He is married, has four children, and resides at 4000 Washington.

Record Number Of Tourists Saw Statehouse In '65

A record 184,576 tourists visited Nebraska's Capitol during 1965, topping the 1964 turnout by 5,479, State Building Superintendent Robert Newell reported Tuesday.

He said records indicated the visitors came from all 50 states and from locations throughout the world.

The number of tourists visiting the statehouse has increased substantially each year since 1960, Newell said, and another record turnout is expected this year.

A wedding in January

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Jeene Anderson, daughter of Mrs. J. Maxwell Anderson and the late Mr. Anderson, to William E. Woods, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Woods, Jr., of New Orleans, La., is announced this morning by the bride-elect's mother.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Jan. 22.

Miss Anderson attended the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Angel Flight. She now is a student at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La., where Mr. Woods also is a student, and where he will enter law school next fall.

What They're Reading

A book which is having a fast rise in popularity is Iris Murdoch's ninth novel, "The Red and the Green."

Like all of its predecessors, "The Red and the Green" emphasizes the unpredictability of men, with their vast though not unlimited possibilities. In a sense it is an historical novel, for it deals with the Irish uprising of Easter Monday in 1916—a long time ago—but primarily it is a comedy of manners.

Opening with an introduction to the characters, the story gradually brings a feeling of despair which flows through the conversation and suddenly you will realize the growing uncertainty of an imminent uprising. The uprising, however, is not the story's climax.

The book's rather unusual style is typical of Murdoch as she opposes the well-made and often more or less allegorical novel. Murdoch is more concerned with the human being as "substantial, impenetrable, individual, indefinable and valuable," and will construct her novel in the way that best brings out these points in her characters.

around the town

There is nothing very fancy about 'routine,' and as a rule it is something everyone tries to avoid. But these days we are hearing no complaints about the peace and quiet, and it would appear that routine, which involves the normal pattern of living, is as welcome as the flowers in May. This is not to say that the town has

FORMER coed is bride

The candlelight wedding of Miss Bonnie Gay Knudsen, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Swanson of Sioux Falls, S.D., and David Glenn DeVries, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. DeVries, took place Thursday evening, Dec. 23, at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Sioux Falls.

Mrs. Jay Hubner of Vermillion, S.D., as the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Ardyce Gidley, Omaha, Mrs. Roger Egan and Miss Mary DeVries, wore Empire frocks fashioned with red velvet basques and sheath skirts of pink crepe.

Serving Mr. DeVries as best man was James Dier of Lincoln, and seating the guests were Joseph Colgan, Omaha; Thomas Porto and Gene Langfeldt, Lincoln.

The bride chose white satin-backed crepe for her wedding gown. A rounding decolletage and fitted, elbow sleeves accented the sculptured bodice, which was appliqued with jeweled alencon lace, and the slim lines of the skirt were emphasized by a detachable train of the silk extending to chapel length. Her train-length veil of illusion was held by an Elizabethan crown of silk edged with pearls, and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

A June graduate of the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Mrs. DeVries is teaching in the Denver Schools. Mr. DeVries, also a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Sigma Nu, will receive his commission from the Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I., in February.

gone into hibernation — It hasn't. The usual bridge clubs are beginning again after a holiday recess — the dancing clubs are as active as ever even though they are on their last lap as far as the season is concerned. There is a very brief span of time between now and May when the spring dinner dances mark the year's finale.

And so much for ado about nothing — On the homecoming list of holiday travelers are Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Hawke who returned on Monday evening from Santa Barbara, Calif. In Santa Barbara Mr. and Mrs. Hawke were the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larson and their three daughters, Janet Lynn, Christian Ann, and Patricia Helen.

We can't think of anything more fun than celebrating a birthday anniversary on New Year's Eve. That is what Robert LeRoy Ellison will be doing from now on. The young man, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. LeRoy Ellison (Kate Haggie) of Phoenix, Ariz., arrived on Friday, Dec. 31. The baby's immediate family is composed of his brother Adam, four years old, and his two year-old sister, Sarah. There are, of course, some doting grandparents — Mrs. Helen Haggie of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ellison of Casper, Wyo.

About those dancing clubs we mentioned a while back —

On Saturday evening the members of the Safari Dancing Club will be out and about. They will dine and trip the light fantastic at Hotel Lincoln.

And it is a Saturday night party, too, for the members of the Merrimex Club. The affair will be held at Hotel Cornhusker.

Bridal Showers

A late January bride-elect who has been honored at pre-nuptial courtesies in recent weeks is Miss Marie Louise Schmal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Schmal, who has chosen Saturday, Jan. 29, as the date for her marriage to Terry Dean Fusco.

Honoring Miss Schmal at a miscellaneous shower was Mrs. Virg Rector who entertained a group of guests at her home. Also a recent courtesy for the soon-to-be bride was the linen shower for which Mrs. Virgil Mohr was hostess at her home.

For her wedding, which will take place at a 10 o'clock morning ceremony at the Cathedral of The Risen Christ, Miss Schmal has named her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Schmal, Jr., as her matron of honor. Her fiancé's sister, Miss Charlotte Fusco, will be the bridesmaid, and bridesmatron will be Mrs. David Fusco.

Mr. Fusco's sister, Miss Barbara Fusco, and Miss Mary Ann Nieberding of Marysville, Kan., will be the flower girls.

David Fusco will serve his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Bill Welch, Wichita, Kan.; Frank Schmal, Jr., brother of the bride-elect, David Koch and George Tinius.

A series of pre-nuptial courtesies has honored January bride-to-be, Miss Connie Hesser, who will become the bride of Larry A. Krepel on Saturday, Jan. 15th.

Entertaining for Miss Hesser at a miscellaneous shower were Miss Pam Mewes and Miss Barbara Green who were hostesses at the home of Miss Mewes.

Wedding In February

Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. York make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Pamela Jane, to Gary Leonard Birch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Birch of Detroit, Mich.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Feb. 19.

Miss York is a graduate of St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing, and is a member of Beta Sigma Phi, business girls' sorority.

Mr. Birch is stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

of the suburban areas

The new year is bringing many new duties to the Lincoln area. Even at this early date many of the residents are doing some early spring cleaning. Because of the fact that travelers and guests have returned home, now is the time to put all things in order.

But there is one family in Suburbia that hasn't made a change in eight generations.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Underneath the quiet family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Jones lurked the story of the silver-headed cane. It seems that young David E. Squire III, the son of Mrs. Jones' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Squire of Broomfield, Colo., who were holiday visitors, isn't really the third family member to carry that name. He's the eighth.

The story begins that many generations ago with David's great-great-great-great grandfather, D. E. Squire who, when he retired from his judgeship in Ohio, had part of his courtroom chair made into a cane topped with a silver head on which was engraved D. E. Squire. The first son of each following generation inherited both his name and his cane.

Other guests at the Jones home were Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Squire, Sr.; Mr. Jones' sister, Miss Velma Jones who is a missionary with the South West Indian School, and Mr. Jones' mother, Mrs. Goldie Jones, both of Phoenix, Ariz. The Arizona twosome have been in Lincoln since mid-December, returning home on New Year's Eve.

This holiday season was a special one for the three Squires. On Wednesday, Dec. 22, Mr. Squire, Sr. celebrated his 65th anniversary, while one day later young David celebrated his 5th. To commemorate the birthdays and the three generations, the Squires had a portrait taken.

Two visitors from Chicago, Ill. were in the Lincoln area last week. Mrs. W. F. Senge and her daughter, Diane, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Brehm and their children, Lauri, Lisa, Lynne and Robert Carl. While in the city the visitors also were the house guests of Mrs. Senge's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bodenstener.

Between the Rose Bowl parade, Orange Bowl parade, all four bowl games and the football roundup, the new color television set at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Kuhn had a rigorous initiation. For the 20 members of the Kuhn clan it was a wonderful New Year's Day. Honored at the gathering were co-producers of this Kuhn family show, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Kuhn. Nebraska rooters for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kuhn and their children, Jackie and Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Hanneman and the young Hanneman's, Debbie, Dick and Diane; Mrs. Jean Tipton and her children, Cheryl, Dennis and Darla, and the younger hosts and hostess, Ronnie, Bob and Jannie.

PERSHING HEIGHTS

Holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal C. McNeill were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Duane McNeill of Enid, Okla. The twosome arrived on Dec. 23 and remained until Dec. 29. The Oklahomans also visited Mr. McNeill's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Svoboda.

SUNNYSIDE ACRES

A birthday celebration will be in order Sunday for Richard Spreier. Although the anniversary is actually on Jan. 9, Sunday is the day that most family members can be present. Party-goers, in addition to Mrs. Spreier and the young Spreiers, Lonnie and Kristie, will be Mr. Spreier's mother, Mrs. Betty Spreier; Mr. Spreier's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Spreier; Mr. and Mrs. George Spreier of La Vista, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Musselman and family of Millard.

Winter Wedding Planned

Miss Caryol Ann Mahoney has chosen Saturday, Jan. 29, as the date for her marriage to John R. Forsyth of Memphis, Tenn.

For the 10:30 o'clock morning ceremony, which will be solemnized at Blessed Sacrament Church, the bride-elect has named her sister, Miss Sue Mahoney, as her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Williams of Kankakee, Ill., and Miss Edie Forsyth of Glenn Ridge, N.J., sister of her fiance.

Miss Deanna Mahoney will attend her aunt as flower girl.

Serving his brother as best man will be James F. Forsyth of Glenn Ridge, N.J., and the ushers will be Dennis Donnelly of Cedar Grove, N.J., and James S. Mahoney.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail
Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In a recent article, you said the boy's mother should set up restrictions in the absence of the girl's mother doing so. We had the same situation a few years ago. Our son, at 17, was going steady with an 18-year-old girl. He, too, practically "lived" at her house. We tried everything we could think of to keep them from seeing so much of each other. We talked to our son. We limited the use of our car. But the girl used her mother's car, so that didn't work. In desperation I phoned the girl's mother and begged her not to let our son come over so much. I told her he had a lot of school left and would be in no position to marry for several years. All to no avail. The girl's mother said they were "good kids," she "trusted" them, and they were "in love."

Well, a few months after our son turned 18 he informed us that the girl was pregnant. Our son is now 20. His education is finished as he had to get a job at 18 to support a family. They have two children now and they are miserable. His wife is a sloppy housekeeper. The only time the floor gets scrubbed is when he does it. He has to take care of the babies when he gets home from work at night. She complains that there isn't enough money and they don't have a decent car, etc. I blame early dating, going steady, AND the girl's parents.

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Trump management is sometimes a ticklish affair. To lose control of trumps is often fatal, and that is why in so many hands the defenders force declarer to ruff a suit.

There was nothing extraordinary in West's defense on this hand; in fact, it was quite routine. He led three rounds of clubs and South trumped the third one.

Declarer decided not to bother with a heart finesse. He led the ace of trumps and continued with the jack.

West, now in the driver's seat, ducked — east showing out. Too late South realized that he was in hot water. He could no longer make the contract.

West, with two tricks in the bag and the king of hearts already established, was bound to take still another trick. His seven of hearts was a thorn in declarer's side which could not be removed.

If declarer continued with the ten of hearts, denuding himself of trumps and leaving dummy with the queen. West would take the king and play the eight of clubs.

If dummy ruffed, West's seven of hearts and six of clubs would both be tricks and South would go down two. This same result would follow if dummy did not ruff the club. A club continuation would also produce a two-trick set.

But more careful play by declarer would have brought home the contract. After ruffing the club at trick three, South should have taken steps to guard against a 4-1 trump break.

This he could have done by leading the jack, not the ace of hearts, at trick four. If West takes the king, he has no effective defense available.

If West refuses the jack, South continues with the ten. Again West is helpless, whether he takes the trick or not.

If West also ducks the ten, South cashes the ace and keeps leading winners until West eventually makes the king of hearts.

Keeping control of trumps does the job regardless of how West elects to defend.

Stop Winter Wrinkles

Use the colder months to give your skin a lovely peaches-and-cream appearance, but guard against wrinkles caused by the cold air. Even mildly crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface. Ask your druggist for oil of Olay, and before you make-up, smooth it over your face, neck and hands, being careful to pat it generously round the eyes. You will be amazed how quickly this beautifying moist oil will give the skin a healthy bloom even on winter days.

Chapparal Racers To Enter Into International Competition

"We have just concluded extensive testing with Firestone of our new Chaparral which we will run in Europe and feel that the car will be competitive overseas," Hall said.

Hall himself tasted European competition for the first time in 1963 when he campaigned a Lotus-BRM in formula one racing.

He didn't elaborate on the new Chaparral but said it would again be a rear-engined prototype powered by a Chevrolet engine and would use the same automatic transmission that was so successful on American courses.

Much of the Chaparral's success has been credited to its uniqueness. Not only did it incorporate the first successful automatic transmission into its plastic body but won all 16 road races in 1965 on tires originally designed by Firestone for the Indianapolis 500 big car race.

76ers Take 129-127 Win Over Knicks

New York (AP)—Billy Cunningham's push shot and a pair of free throws—by Hal Greer in the final minute overcame New York's second half rally and gave the Philadelphia 76ers a 129-127 victory over the Knicks.

New York, trailing 65-51 at halftime, came back strong in the second half with Howard Komives scoring all of his 24 points during that time.

Dick Barlett put the Knicks ahead 128-116 with a 3-point

Tournament upsets completely reshuffled the rest of the standings.

St. Joseph's captured the Quaker City and climbed from seventh to fourth. Brigham Young lost for the first time and slipped from third to fifth. Providence took the Holiday Festival and jumped two positions to sixth while Bradley suffered its first defeat and skidded from fourth to seventh.

Petitions To Keep 23 Counties From Education Units Filed

Copies of petitions seeking exclusion of 23 counties from the educational service units created by the last Legislature were filed with the secretary of state Tuesday.

The petition drives, if successful, would force a popular vote on the issue in each of the counties.

Alan Beermann, administrative assistant to Secretary of State Frank Marshall, said he understands more petitions are being prepared and efforts may be made to withdraw as many as 60 counties from the units.

Nineteen multi-county units were created by the last Legislature through passage of LB-301, which was designed to provide young Nebraskans with supplementary educational services usually provided only by wealthy school districts.

Brauer Filed
S. H. Brauer Jr., executive secretary of the Nebraska School Improvement Association, filed the unit exclusion petitions for residents of the 23 counties involved. The NSIA was opposed to LB301.

The counties affected, by service unit, included:
1-Cedar, Wayne; 2-Cuming, Saunders, Dodge; 4-
Nemaha, Johnson; 5-Thayer,
Jefferson; 7-Coffey, Platte,

Boone; 8-Pierce, Holt, Wheeler, Antelope, Madison; 9-
Adams; 10-Hall, Merrick;
12-Buffalo; 13-Garfield, Valley.

Beermann said each county petition drive will have to generate signatures totaling five per cent of the legal voters in each of two-fifths of the county's school district to force a county-wide vote on the issue.

Vote Would Decide
The majority vote in the election would decide whether the county remains or withdraws from its LB302 unit.

Petitions must be filed within 30 days after Gov. Frank Morrison selects the members of the initial governing boards of the 19 units. The deadline for naming the boards is mid-February.

Beermann said he will begin gathering data on the number of school districts and number of legal voters in the districts in the counties affected by the anti-LB301 drive.

LOST LEG, NOT ZEAL

The loss of a leg to cancer has not stopped Kathy Waite, 13, of Klamath Falls, Ore. Less than a month after the operation, she is back on skates, determined to win a state skating championship again.

Lincoln church news is carried on a special page in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Capitol Mural Being Installed To Music

Classical music filtered through the main halls of the State Capitol Tuesday.

Concordia Teachers College art professor Reinhold P. Marxhausen of Seward began installing his mosaic mural entitled "The Spirit of Nebraska" in the Great Hall of the Statehouse.

Marxhausen brought taped music as well as his paneled mural and tools.

"I always work to music," he explained.

Marxhausen's work follows "The Blizzard of '88" as the second mural to be installed in the Capitol's Great Hall.

The creator of the first mural, Miss Jeanne Reynal of New York City, has expressed displeasure with the installation of her work, and she was to arrive in Lincoln Wednesday to make corrections.

A third mosaic, "Building the First Railroad," is near completion, and artist F. John Miller of Montreal, Canada, plans to install it soon.

The nine-member State Mural Commission has not commissioned artists for the three other murals to be placed in the Great Hall.

4th Member Of Team To Create Water Plan Hired

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission said he is Ralph Waddington, a hydrologist.

Waddington, a native of Cairo, is employed by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation in Salem, Ore. He is a University of Nebraska graduate.

Receipts From Drink Taxes And Fees Rose In '65

The State Liquor Control Commission Tuesday reported taxes and fees totalling $5,353,596 for 1965, an increase of $628,616 from the previous year.

Officials said the increase came from a hike in the beer tax and increased liquor consumption.

December receipts of $498,000 were up from $418,000 a year ago and $474,032 for November.

Goldberg: U.S. Ready To Talk Anywhere

Washington (AP)—The United States is ready to negotiate for a settlement of the Vietnam war at Geneva or any other suitable conference site, Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said Tuesday.

"We believe our 14 points are sound," Goldberg said. "Nevertheless we are willing to negotiate. We hope that Hanoi is willing to do the same."

Chinese Call Some Envoys To High Meef

New Delhi, India (AP)—Red China has summoned some of its ambassadors home apparently for a top level meeting, foreign ministry and Western diplomats in New Delhi reported Tuesday.

An Indian foreign ministry spokesman said the ambassadors have been called home for consultations but that the nature of the meeting in Peking is unknown.

Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw and Cairo, Peking's charge d'affaires in New Delhi and ambassadors from other countries are known to have headed for Peking.

Goldberg spoke to reporters at the White House after a two-hour meeting with President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other top officials.

He gave Johnson a report on his special peace mission to Rome, Paris and London and delivered a personal message from Pope Paul VI to the President.

As ambassador to the United Nations, Goldberg said Johnson authorized him to make a written report to U.N. members Wednesday on the peace moves he and other administration envoys have been making around the globe.

The report, obviously aimed at winning support in the court of world opinion, will be filed with the secretary-general and issued as a document of the U.N. Security Council to all member nations of the world organization.

Britain Urges Russians Collaborate To Start Talks

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson has urged Soviet Premier Alexei N. Khrushchev to collaborate with Britain in arranging a peace conference on Viet Nam, officials reported Tuesday.

The message was delivered in the Kremlin by Sir Geoffrey Harrison, the British ambassador to Moscow. Officials declined to give details. It was not known whether Khrushchev had yet received the message.

Luci's Fiance To Finish Duty In Washington

Madison, Wis. (AP)—Airmen Patrick J. Nugent, fiance of the President's younger daughter, Luci, will finish his active duty military training in Washington instead of Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Air National Guard, which Nugent joined at Milwaukee in September, said Tuesday the 22-year-old Marquette University graduate had been transferred to a unit in Washington.

A Guard spokesman here said the transfer was routine because Nugent had accepted a job in Washington upon his release. Nugent will complete six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas Friday, then will undergo another 120 days training with an Air Guard unit.

Manchester, England (AP)—Fifi of the stormy past gave birth Tuesday and a spokesman at Belle Vue Zoo said, "We are hoping that the baby will be able to survive."

Fifi is a hippopotamus who has lost two children so far. When she lost her first baby she turned around and killed her husband. A second baby died at birth.

The father of this third baby is Nicholas, who previously killed his mother.

The zoo spokesman said the married killers seem to have settled down together.

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Irene McDowell, 45, who police said set herself afire New Year's Day because of a severe toothache, died Tuesday in a Nashville hospital.

Metropolitan Medical Examiner W. J. Core said she left a note reporting the toothache and adding "that she couldn't stand the pain any longer."

Police said the woman had gone to a hospital to have the tooth pulled, but was denied charity care because her husband was employed.

Lyon, France (AP)—A leaky valve in a butane gas storage tank and a spark from a passing motorist's exhaust were blamed for explosions and a fire Tuesday that left 11 persons dead and one missing and feared dead at France's most modern refinery.

Most Wanted Criminal Is Found In Jail

San Francisco (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported Tuesday that it had found one of its 10 most wanted men in jail on a drunk driving charge.

He is Lawrence J. Higgins, 52, wanted for the robbery of the Crocker Citizens National Bank of Covina, Calif.

Higgins, who was put on the FBI list Dec. 14, had been working as a cook in a Sacramento, Calif., rest home under his own name. He was arrested last Monday at Auburn, Calif., on a drunk driving charge and his identity established through routine check of criminal records, an FBI spokesman said.

He will be arraigned Wednesday on a federal bank robbery charge at Sacramento.

Higgins served five years in the Arkansas State Penitentiary for burglary, the FBI reported.

Stormy days around here. Yet our mailman cometh. "In swift completion of his appointed rounds" as the Post-Office Department says.

He cometh in a red, white and blue wagon. Right-hand drive, so he can deposit the mail in our rural box at the edge of the street. The box is on a post, name and number on it.

If I am driving home, I stop by the box and get the mail.

No easy task. First I have to unfasten the seat belt. Then I must get into the right-hand seat. At the same time keeping a foot on the brake—we're on a hill.

Then I roll down the window and reach in the box.

Usually there is one letter way, way back. I can just touch it with my fingertips. So I lean farther and reeeeeeeeeeeeach. It puts a strain on your ribs, believe me.

I get the envelope. Open it.

Address: "Occupant."

"Dear Sir: We can now make you an amazing free offer of two bars of Glisten soap..."

☆☆☆ The other day a mailman was nabbed by the P.O. inspectors. They went around to his house and found closets stuffed with undelivered mail. A lot of it was marked "Occupant."

"I couldn't find half the addresses," said the mailman. "Some of them were phobies. Some places people had moved."

He said his feet were giving him fits. (He was a walk-around city mailman.)

So he took the stuff home. Gave it the deep six in the closet.

The inspectors were aghast.

They said: "What about 'through storm and sleet and dark of night' and all that jazz, hey?"

They said, "Look, buddy, what if every yard bird in the P.O. Department decided not to deliver soap ads and offers of a free encyclopedia to 'Occupant,' hey?"

The mailman said he thought the world would be better off.

☆☆☆ Mail by red, white and blue truck is new in our time. City people got mail by a walk-around mailman with a leather sack on his back. But in the country, we went down to the post office.

It was a cozy post office. We knew all the clerks. And the postmaster who got his job because he was a friend of the Congressman.

There were interesting front-and-side view pictures on the wall.

"Approach with caution. May be armed."

A good thing about this post office. It had a couple of big barrels in the corner, alongside the writing desk with the pens chained to it.

When we got our mail, we read it right there. Took the "Occupant" mail and flipped it unopened into the barrel. No problem.

We did not crack our ribs reeeeeeeeeeeeaching into a mail box.
